ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

To improve reception characteristics of a radio communication terminal such as a portable telephone by performing synchronism deciding at high speed and compensating for deterioration of transmission quality. When receiving a signal transmitted by radio with a pilot symbol added to transmission data, the phase of a pilot symbol is decided from a received signal, a synchronized time of the received signal being decided based on the decided phase and the received signal being demodulated with reference to the synchronized time.